Early Childhood Education and Care in Canada 2016 to be released May 9 2018

On May 9, the Childcare Resource and Research Unit (CRRU) will release Early Childhood Education and Care in Canada 2016. This comprehensive report, the 11th edition since 1992, provides key data and other information on child care, kindergarten and parental leave across Canada. The report tracks spaces, finances, program-related features and public policy developments at the provincial/territorial and federal levels, as well as including relevant demographic information such as mothers' labour force participation and child population for the period 2014 - 2016. The format of the ECEC in Canada reports and consistency of approach allows identification of changes and trends over time.

The Childcare Resource and Research Unit is Canada's prime institute specializing in early childhood education and child care policy research. The report will be available on the CRRU website at www.childcarecanada.org on the morning of May 9 2018.
