

Parenting during the pandemic ^[1]

Source: University of Manitoba

Format: Article

Publication Date: 22 Apr 2020

Link to survey no longer available

Study Description

Families are facing many challenges related to coping with the COVID-19 pandemic.

Our study aims to identify the degree that COVID-19 is affecting families of young children and whether the needs of these families are being met.

You will be asked to share your parenting, stress, mental health, and service use experiences during COVID-19.

What does the study involve?

- 30-45 minutes to complete a survey
- possibility of an online interview

Who can participate?

- parents 18 years of age or older
- with children aged 0-8 years old

Region: Canada ^[2]

Source URL (modified on 11 Nov 2021): <https://childcarecanada.org/documents/research-policy-practice/20/04/parenting-during-pandemic>

Links

[1] <https://childcarecanada.org/documents/research-policy-practice/20/04/parenting-during-pandemic> [2] <https://childcarecanada.org/taxonomy/term/7864>