

What's next for making $10-a-day child care a reality in Canada?

[1]

Author: Khandaker, Tamara

Source: The Decibel (Globe and Mail podcast)

Format: Video

Publication Date: 30 Mar 2022

AVAILABILITY

Listen to podcast [18:28] [2]

EXCERPTS FROM DESCRIPTION

On March 28, it was announced that Ontario had finally signed onto the federal child-care deal. With all provinces and territories now signed on, families across the country will eventually be paying only $10 a day for child care. To make this possible, the federal government is investing $30 billion to open 146,000 new child-care spots by 2026, but that investment may be useless if we don't have the early childhood educators to fill them.

The Globe and Mail's Dave McGinn has been reporting on the federal child-care deal. He talks to us about why early childhood educators have been leaving the industry in droves, and what needs to happen to make this plan work.

Region: Canada [3]

Tags: child care expansion [4]

child care workforce [5]

national child care system [6]

Source URL (modified on 30 Mar 2022): <https://childcarecanada.org/documents/child-care-news/22/03/what%E2%80%99s-next-making-10-day-child-care-reality-canada>

Links

[1] <https://childcarecanada.org/documents/child-care-news/22/03/what%E2%80%99s-next-making-10-day-child-care-reality-canada> [2]

<https://www.theglobeandmail.com/podcasts/the-decibel/article-whats-next-for-making-10-a-day-child-care-a-reality-in-canada/?cmpid=rss> [3]

<https://childcarecanada.org/taxonomy/term/7864> [4] <https://childcarecanada.org/taxonomy/term/9210> [5] <https://childcarecanada.org/category/tags/child-care-workforce> [6] <https://childcarecanada.org/category/tags/national-child-care-system>