

Improving student achievement: What NAEP state test scores tell us <sup>[1]</sup>

Author: Grissmer, D. W., Flanagan, A., Kawata, J., & Williamson, S.

Source: RAND

Format: Report

Publication Date: 24 Jul 2000

AVAILABILITY

Full report in print for order (see SOURCE) and online for download.

Full report available for download <sup>[2]</sup>

RAND report reveals that some states are doing far better than others in making achievement gains and in elevating their students' performance compared with students in other states. The report finds that states with higher participation in public prekindergarten programs and more widespread prekindergarten efforts have higher achievement scores.

Region: United States <sup>[3]</sup>

Tags: kindergarten <sup>[4]</sup>

pre-school <sup>[5]</sup>

---

Source URL (modified on 27 Jan 2022): <https://childcarecanada.org/documents/research-policy-practice/02/07/improving-student-achievement-what-naep-state-test-scores>

Links

[1] <https://childcarecanada.org/documents/research-policy-practice/02/07/improving-student-achievement-what-naep-state-test-scores> <sup>[2]</sup>

https://www.rand.org/pubs/monograph\_reports/MR924.html [3] <https://childcarecanada.org/taxonomy/term/7865> [4]

<https://childcarecanada.org/category/tags/kindergarten> [5] <https://childcarecanada.org/category/tags/pre-school>