Region: Ontario ^[2]

Details

Government policies affect the world our children and youth will inherit tomorrow. They affect their opportunities to get a good education today. The Provincial government decides what is taught in our schools and how much of our Provincial taxes are used to pay for education. The future growth of the province depends on high quality, publicly-funded education. This affects you - whether or not you have children in the school system.

The October 6th election will have far-reaching effects. As a voter and citizen of Ontario, it is in your interest to know where the candidates stand on the issues. So get involved.

Education Day is a non-partisan event where the local candidates from the 4 major provincial parties share their views and answer questions on the issues affecting public education.

Education Day is coordinated by local Public School Trustees and the Ontario Public School Boards' Association.
