

Building a policy framework for middle childhood: Considerations ^[1]

Presentation at the Middle Childhood Policy Forum, Strathmere House, Ottawa

Author: Varga-Toth, Judi

Source: Canadian Policy Research Networks

Format: Speech

Publication Date: 15 Feb 2007

AVAILABILITY

- Presentation in pdf ^[2]

Description:

We have spent much time and energy as a society creating policies for early childhood. But increasingly it is becoming evident that the middle years, ages 6 to 12, need the attention of policy-makers as well. In her presentation, Building a Policy Framework for Middle Childhood: Considerations, Judi Varga-Toth, CPRN Assistant Director, takes a look at existing policies in Europe and Quebec and suggests areas where policies could be implemented. Judi Varga-Toth's presentation was made last November to the Middle Childhood Policy Forum at Strathmere House in Ottawa.

Region: Canada ^[3]

Tags: school-age ^[4]

Source URL (modified on 27 Jan 2022): <https://childcarecanada.org/documents/research-policy-practice/07/02/building-policy-framework-middle-childhood-considerations>

Links

[1] <https://childcarecanada.org/documents/research-policy-practice/07/02/building-policy-framework-middle-childhood-considerations> ^[2]

<https://cprn.org/en/doc.cfm?doc=1618> [3] <https://childcarecanada.org/taxonomy/term/7864> [4] <https://childcarecanada.org/category/tags/school-age>