Report outlines the development, content and implementation of a new integrated curriculum for children ages 3-5 years in Korea. The curriculum will be used in both kindergarten and child care centres.

"The introduction was carried out with the expansion of the coverage and the amount of financial support for tuition in comparison with the previous nationally-funded ECEC curriculums.

- Previous financial support was given only to children below the 70% income level. However, all children under the Nuri curriculum can now be subsidized regardless of their household income level.
- The amount of financial support for tuition was 200,000 won per month in 2012. The increase to 300,000 won monthly will have been phased in by 2016.

As a nationally-funded curriculum, children under the Nuri curriculum in both kindergartens and childcare centers are all funded from Local Office of Education (LOE), from grants provided by the [Ministry of Education]".
