EXCERPTS

Seriously, if BabyShare doesn't already exist somewhere, we bet someone's thinking about it. The point is: many younger Canadians are delaying starting a family because it's just too expensive, OR we're giving it a go and feeling increasingly squeezed.

We're squeezed by stagnant incomes and difficulty finding stable work, high costs for things like housing and child care, less time at home and mounting debts (including scary public debts like climate change). Meanwhile, many of our politicians are failing to adapt.
