To help families the budget states that the government of Manitoba will Meet the commitment to fund 6,500 child care spaces this year.

To help communities the budget states tht the government of Manitoba will Build or expand 54 child care centres.

The 2012 Manitoba budget address ^[17]

In 2008, we promised families we would fund 6,500 childcare spaces and strengthen our child-care system.

Mr. Speaker, at the end of this year, we will have delivered on that commitment.

A total of 54 child-care centres are being built or expanded. We continue to support better training and wages for child-care workers.

News release, 24 Apr 24: Education Investments Focus on Early Learning, Infrastructure ^[23]

Budget 2012 includes almost $1.7 million for the second year of implementation of the province's early childhood learning strategy, Learning from the Start, which is designed to enhance early learning opportunities for young children and their families. It is part of a three-year $4.8 million investment, announced last year, with an initial focus on the years from birth to age three.

News release, 18 Apr 12: Budget 2012 Invests $2 Million in Family Child Care ^[24]

"This investment reaffirms our government's commitment to family child care services," said Minister Johnson. "Building on last year's investment, Budget 2012 will allocate $2 million to the Family Child Care Initiative, which continues to provide much needed regulated child care spaces to families with young children."

Poverty Reduction and supporting families

Insufficient quality child care and early learning spaces

- The pressing array of barriers, constraints and affordability is a problem for low income and middle income families especially BUT is also a problem for all income levels in terms of consistent quality and access
- High cost, too few spaces, long waiting periods
- Part time needs but people have to pay full time fee level to attend
- Offering tax credits helps only those who pay taxes, those who use formal care (who have official receipts). Credits are of little value to those who cannot afford to pay and wait for a return upon tax filing

- Limited support for child care subsidies while parents are seeking work
- Restricted hours of service does not meet flexible work shifts

"NSAB Actions:

- Provide funding to begin the phase-in of an ELCC plan: $45 million for 2012-13.
- Under a planned investment approach, incremental increases are to follow in subsequent years as the ELCC Action Plan is implemented in stages. NSAB recognizes that some of the subsequent investments will be offset by a planned transition to end existing public subsidies to for-profit operators and re-investing these resources in the developing system.
- The NSAB also recognizes that there is an urgent need for dedicated federal funding for early learning and childcare to assist the province to implement this plan.

- The NSAB also realizes that public investments must be spent wisely to ensure that they advance the principles outlined above. The NSAB commits to using a tool such as the Child Care System Implementation Model, will assist in this process.

Total new spending in early learning and child care: $45 million."

HST cut in Nova Scotia: Detracting from real debate about our future ^[32]

Christine Saulnier's blog, rabble.ca, 6 Apr 12

"Since this government came into office in 2009, its mantra has been that the government of Nova Scotia needs to "live within its means." But this focus has detracted from the bigger questions we should focus on during budget time and all throughout a government's mandate: what does and what should government do for Nova Scotians and how will it pay for what it needs to do? What is its vision?... And whether we are talking about health care, education, housing, child care or social assistance, it isn't as if we have fewer problems and thus need less spending. On the contrary, our health profile is worse than the rest of the country. We have no Early Learning and Child Care strategy to speak of."

Budget 2011 supports health, education and a return to balance ^[60], Policy Monitor, 6 Apr 12

Minister Sheridan said the new budget builds on the momentum of previous budgets that have resulted in several major accomplishments.

It will continue the work that is well underway to provide all Island children with the same access to high quality early learning and child care. Funding for the Preschool Excellence Initiative will increase by $2.7 million this year to $11.3 million, a further increase of 31 per cent.

Funding for the new school-based kindergarten program increased from $3.6 million in 2008 to $11 million this coming year.

Support is also being provided for child care; $46 million in operating funding is provided this year, including an increase of $2 million to create 500 new child care spaces and $4 million for the capital costs related to those new spaces. The majority of these spaces will be placed in schools or post-secondary institutions to facilitate continuing education and improved outcomes for young people. $1.0 million in increased operating funding ($18.6 million total) to support the province's vulnerable three and four year-old early learners. Fifteen new pre-kindergarten programs will be developed. This initiative is also supported by $1.0 million in capital funding. This brings the total number of licensed child care spaces to approximately 13,240 and the total number of designated pre-kindergarten programs to 286.
